THE EROS SANCTUARY MODULE 5

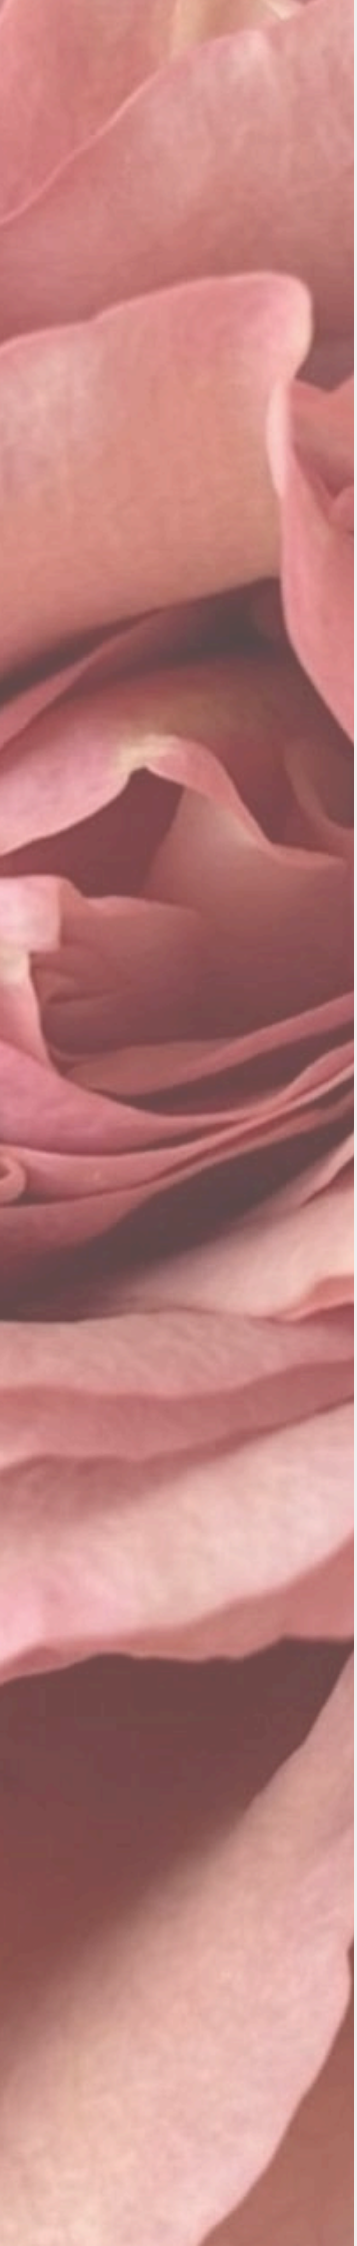

Practice 1: The Daily 'Sensory Slowdown'

Starting today, pick just one everyday moment (like sipping your morning coffee, eating a juicy strawberry, putting oil on your body, listening to your favorite song right now, or watching the evening sun). Take this moment completely into slow motion—slow it down by at least half. Close your eyes the moment you taste, smell, or feel something, so your nervous system turns one hundred percent inward. Bring your absolute focus to that raw, physical sensation.

The Nervous System Check: Do you notice yourself secretly wanting to rush? Feeling absolutely nothing? Or maybe feeling some resistance? Bring a hand to your lower belly and take a deep breath through your mouth, straight down into your pelvis. Do this a few times, and then just try again.

Practice 2: The Yoni Breath

Set aside 5 minutes every day this week to sit or lie down comfortably. With every inhale, send your breath all the way down, deep into your pelvic floor. Let your yoni soften and expand physically, like the wings of a butterfly opening wide to let the sun in. On the exhale, let go of all the muscles in your pelvic floor.

Feel the tingling, the energy you're waking up just by bringing your awareness there. Honestly, you don't have to do anything—just bring your focus and your breath down to your punani, and simply breathe and feel.

